The National Association of State Chief Information Officers has released a guidance document to help state governments adopt the National Information Exchange Model that is designed to improve information sharing across government.

A Call to Action: Information Exchange Strategies for Effective State Government [4] provides state CIOs with the background, guidance and recommendations in support of the adoption of NIEM. The recommendations describe the early steps that state CIOs can take to get started on this effort, NASCIO officials said.

Earlier this year, NASCIO officials joined the executive steering committee of NIEM to advise its members on the uses of the NIEM data framework among federal agencies and state and territorial governments.
